

Cook...

In the mix

How to get your quick mix fix!

Out of home
magazine

JANUARY | 2017

The N-Dohs

Speakers confirmed for Casual Dining

Leading casual dining operators – including TGI Fridays, Mitchells & Butlers, Casual Dining Group (CDG), Bill's, Wahaca and Côte Restaurants – are preparing to host keynotes at Casual Dining 2017. Returning to the Business Design Centre in London on 22nd and 23rd February, the multi-award winning event for the casual dining sector has lined up exclusive, free keynotes and interviews with some of the biggest names in the business.

Among them are Martin Robinson, non-executive chairman of CDG; Karen Forrester, CEO of TGI Fridays; Mark Fox, CEO of Bill's Restaurants; Jo Fleet, MD of Wahaca; and Andrew Gallagher, group marketing director for Côte Restaurants.

Gallagher said: "Attending Casual Dining is a fantastic way to keep up with emerging trends and explore new product innovations and ideas that could shape the industry's future. I'm really looking forward to it."

Fox added: "It's very important to bring all the key players, operators and suppliers together to spark innovation and to collectively address some of the macro changes that will mould the way consumers eat."

As in previous years, market updates and insights will be provided by Peter Backman, managing director of Horizons, Simon Stenning, executive director of MCA, and Kate Nicholls, CEO of the Association of Licensed Multiple Retailers.

For more information, and to register for a free trade ticket, visit www.casualdiningshow.co.uk and use priority code CD30.

"Attending Casual Dining is a fantastic way to keep up with emerging trends"